

now engaged in completing his plan. It is said that the documents to investigate are never far from his hands.

Cave v. State Bank.—In this case, says the Trenton Federalist, the bank had obtained a judgment and execution against Cave in the Supreme Court for about $1300, for which he some time since offered their own paper, which the bank refused; in consequence of which Cave presented the bank before a magistrate and obtained thirteen judgments for about $1300. At the late term of the Supreme Court, the counsel for Cave moved the Court that the judgments obtained by Cave against the bank, or so much thereof as might be necessary, should be set off against the judgment and execution obtained by the bank against him in the Supreme Court, and satisfaction entered on that judgment; which was opposed by the counsel for the bank. The Court decided that the party applying was entitled to have the judgment set off. Upon this the bank declared their intention to appeal from the judgment of the magistrate, and urged that the off-set should not be made, as it would deprive them of that privilege, and produce appeal bonds. Upon which the Court said they would not deprive them of the privilege of appealing, but upon the request of the counsel on behalf of Cave, they ordered all proceedings on the execution against him to be staid.

Thirteen sheep of the broad tail, or Tunisian breed, have recently been imported into New York. They were sent out by Capt. Creighton, of the U. S. ship Cyane, who procured at considerable expense, and with no small trouble, and sent out for the purpose of introducing here, a species, which is said to be highly valuable, not only for the wool, but the flesh. The tail has a very singular appearance, being in some instances from eight to ten inches in breadth, forming, when it is cooked, a most delicate and delicious food.

The Baltimore theatre opens on Monday evening. The company have assembled at their posts, ready for a grand effort to sustain the proper character of the drama. We wish them success, much better than they have recently had there.

A Company of Comedians are performing in Reading, in this State.

At the Park Theatre, New-York, Mr. Cooper has just closed a very profitable engagement.—His Willow Tree drew a crowded and fashionable audience. Miss Kelly has recovered from her late illness, and was announced to personate Letitia Hardy in the comedy of the Belle Strategem, last evening.

At the Chatham Garden Theatre, the Drama of the Lady of the Lake has proved extremely attractive; it was performed for the ninth successive time on Thursday night—ever the full houses which Cooper and Conway drew, during their successive engagements at the Park theatre, produced no visible diminution in the numbers who constantly collect here to view this splendid performance.

At the La Fayette Circus, in New-York, Mr. Robertson, the celebrated acrobat, has been a considerable attraction—he has given some curious exhibitions, and among others the Phantasmagoria. Mr. Burroughs is to terminate his engagement on Monday night, by a benefit, at which he will appear in two favorite characters.

Mr. Peleg and Mrs. Polby, are playing in Boston, and receive considerable applause as the papers say. Mr. Reed has also appeared, and the critics call him a man of much promise. Miss Biddle is engaged at that theatre, it is said, but has not yet made her appearance.

The Albany theatre, after a temporary close of two weeks, has been re-opened. The performances commenced with the burlesque of Tom and Jerry. Mr. Cheesway is engaged to perform for a few nights at this place. This theatre, it is said, is surpassed by few in the United States. There is a large and elegant drawing room, with sofas and mirrors, convenient to the boxes, where the ladies can retire for refreshments. This is as it should be. Gentlemen can retire where they please, but in theatres generally, the fair part of the audience are pent up in boxes for hours, without more than perhaps a slice of an orange, and even that, is not always at their command.—Albany deserves much praise for this arrangement, and it should be followed wherever a theatre is established.

Some weeks ago, an advertisement appeared in the New-Orleans papers, setting forth that the managers of the Theatre in that city, would be compelled, on account of the weather, to limit the performances to a single night each week, which would be Sunday.

It is said, in the London papers that Mr. Lunn, the author of "Fish out of water," and "Family Jars," is about to bring out a new comedy at the Haymarket Theatre, entitled "Hoses and Thorns." Green room reports speak in the highest terms of the Comedy, as being characterized by a chavity of humour, and a liveliness of incident, which, while they remove it from the broad farce so much in vogue at the present day, place it on the same scale with some of the best of our genteel comedies of former times.

Mr. Elliston, the theatrical manager, was at Margate, and whirling about the town in a four-wheeled chair for the benefit of his health.

Mr. Keen is performing in Liverpool. He intends to visit this country, and the Liverpool Courier says we may expect him in the next packet, which is the Canada.

From the West Chester, N. Y. Herald.

Advertisement—Extraordinary!

"Twas night—on the gloomy way

Which leads to town of Tant,

To a traveller chance to go astray—

Though not to go to—marry!

Within a gig a drake was perched,

Beside a living effin;

When, lo! the gig on sudden hurch'd,

The effin's lid flew off in.

Now who returns the effin's top?

In shape much like a bellows,

If near the church-yard he will stop,

Shall rank with clever fellows.

B. B.

Sing-Sing, Sept. 1823.

OBITUARY.

LUCIE VALLETTE, of PHILADELPHIA.

Among the number who have been added to the obituary list, this season, and who are deservedly lamented, it is with sincere regret we enjoin the name of our early friend, Acting Lieut. JAMES K. VALLETTE, of the L. S. sloop Terror. To those who knew him, this intelligence is afflicting in the extreme. Mr. Vallette in private life was a gentleman in every respect. As an officer, he was never remiss in his duty, but on the contrary, so much was he fired with the love of glory and patriotism, that he applied to the Secretary of the Navy to be stationed in the West India expedition against the pirates. How many more bright stars of our navy are to be extinguished in this scuttle? We have already lost hundreds of men, and we shall still lose hundreds more if they are compelled to stay in their unhealthy climate in the hottest weather. Mr. Vallette had not long recovered from the fever, and was congratulating himself upon the happy termination of a dreadful disease. He was soon to return home, and the once more enclosed in the fond embrace of his parents and his friends, when the all destroying conqueror came and snatched him away, in the midst of all his fond anticipations. It is a consolation to his friends to know he died in the discharge of his duty, and although urged by them not to expose himself to dangerous justice, as will, beyond all doubt, set the Chesapeake on fire!

Evening Post.
PHILADELPHIA.
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1823.

TO READERS AND CORRESPONDENTS.—
"Root"—"Eben"—"Circus"—"Icic," &c.
shall be inserted without delay.

Secondly, "On the effect of early impressions upon future character," and the "Idiot Mind," from our friend "Selim," (which article having been mislaid, must excite us from the charge of neglect,) shall also receive our earliest attention.

Various are the conjectures and opinions which are afloat on the speech or proclamation of Mr. Noah, recently promulgated with such imposing array from the new location on Grand Island. He has been assailed with ridicule, and his whole plan treated as the chimerical attempt of an enthusiast, or a deep scheme of pecuniary speculation.

His assumption of the title of "Governor and Judge of Israel," and the extended jurisdiction over which he pretends to lay claim as "one having authority," it must be admitted are calculated in no small degree to excite our "special wonder." There is too great a dissimilarity between the high calling so recently adopted and the pleasant vocation in which he has heretofore laboured, and in which he has so often tickled our risible faculties as the factious good humoured, laughter loving Major. The change is too great—too sudden; we cannot at once reconcile to our minds, the idea of two characters so entirely opposite, united in one and the same person. In a religious point of view, therefore there is a violence offered to our sense of reason and propriety, which, "at home," cannot be so readily overcome, however, it may be by those who reading at a distance, in foreign countries are so far removed from the immediate scene of action, as to be forcibly presented with only its more grave and impressive character, such may perhaps be disposed to yield credence to a plan so plausibly represented, and to such it will be reclected is the invitation more particularly issued, and on whose favourable acceptance the eventual success of the scheme is doubtless predicated. It is to those of his brethren, who are located in those parts of the world where the enjoyment of property, and the blessings of civil, and religious freedom, are all subject to the fluctuating will of power, just or unjust, and in many cases where individual safety and peace is dependent on the whim or caprice of an unfeeling tyrant. Those who are thus situated, it is known are numerous, and if once assured of an asylum and a "city of refuge," with any thing like the fair prospects which are held out by Mr. Noah, it is certainly by no means unreasonable to suppose that they will embrace the opportunity of so essentially bettering their condition.

The United States Gazette is in error, when in commenting on the thirty-one petitions for Divorce before the supreme court in Rhode Island it says, "the cause of that stain (and a stain it most assuredly is) upon the morals of the State, is to be found in the facilities with which marriages are consummated, and that no preparatory measures are required before the priest pronounces the yea and amen," since we know that the very precautionary measures which the Gazette supposes would be so serviceable, is in actual use, having more than once listened for "three successive Sundays" to its observance, without, however, being very forcibly impressed with the utility or propriety of sounding from the pulpit on "Lord's day," the existence, progression, and contemplated termination of a courtship (which after all may not be consummated) between the "contracting parties" whose names, &c. are given out with proper "tone and emphasis" to a congregation, every man, woman and child of which in nine instances out of ten, will be the case in small towns or villages, would a month before have pronounced the news, "stale, flat and unprofitable." The cause of those unhappy, and discreditable differences must be traced to other sources.

We have read, "in our day," some few criticisms and heralds of many more than we are ever likely to read, but in all our occasional dippings and peepings into the profound and learned, either of the past or present age, the Daily's, Monthly's, or Quarterly's of foreign or domestic growth, we have never yet slipped or peeped into anything so learned and profound as the criticisms which have made their appearance in the Baltimore Ladies' Literary Bouquet, a new work which was recently suspended in consequence of the removal of the gentlemen who formerly conducted its editorial concerns, but whose loss is now supplied by a literary character, who appears to be a perfect mimic in the world of literature. The only two numbers which we have as yet been favoured, contain his essay at criticism, headed "original," as a mark, no doubt, of the high estimation in which they are held by the author. The Rev. Mr. Maturin, the author of Hornet, &c. &c. is in the 77th year of his age. On Monday morning, the 26th ult., by the Rev. Dr. Wm. H. STARR, to Miss ANGELICA, daughter of Michael PAFF, of New-York.

On Sunday evening, the 29th ult., at Frankford, by Henry O'Neill, Esq. Mr. JACOB CASTOR, to Miss MARIA SMITH, both of that place.

On Thursday the 29th ult. by William Milne, Esq. WILLIAM C. THORNTON, of New-York, to Miss REBECCA CHURCH, of New-Jersey.

On the 24th ult. by the Rev. Wm. E. Ashton, Mr. NATHAN W. JENNINGS, to SUSAN R. AUSTIN, both of Southwark.

DIED.

On Tuesday evening, the 27th ult. Mr. JOHN HARTLINE.

On the 15th ult. Mrs. MARY, wife of Mr. George Washington Swain, aged 23.

On the 20th ult. near Frankford, aged 66, JOSEPH BANGER, long a resident of this city.

On Friday afternoon, in the 93rd year of her age, MARGARET HALL.

On Saturday evening in the 18th year of his age, CHARLES BROOKS, son of John Brooks, & Son, London, attorney at law.

WINTON, wife of John Winstan, aged 25 years.

On Saturday evening the 24th ult. Mrs. CATHERINE, wife of Peter L. Clark, aged 38 years.

On Friday, the 23d ult. SARAH, wife of Turner Canoe, Esq.

On Friday evening, the 23d ult. at New-York, of a short and severe illness, JOHN D. MEYER, son-in-law of Dr. Monges, of this city.

On the 26th ult. after a lingering illness, ANN, wife of John F. Sullivan.

On Thursday morning, 29th ult. Mrs. ELIZABETH JOHNSON, in the 77th year of her age.

On Monday morning, the 26th ult. Mr. WILLIAM SOMERVILLE, Esq. Founder, in the 39th year of his age.

On Wednesday evening, aged 47, Mrs. MARY REILLY, widow of Thomas Reilly.

On the 29th ult. at Courtland, Alabama, Mrs. MARY CLOTHIER, wife of Dr. John G. Cooper, formerly of this city.

On Tuesday evening last, at Wilmington, Del., after a short illness, Mr. EDWARD LAMBORN, keeper of the Bayard Hotel.

In Alexandria, D. C. D. ELISHA C. DICK, in the 72d year of his age, as good as well as any man in his profession.

He was one of the most popular lawyers in the city.

He was a member of the bar for 30 years.

He was a member of the Society of Friends.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the New-York Historical Society.

He was a member of the American Antislavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He was a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society.

He

There's the very page of life,
That gives it all its bloom.

SONG.

Did ye mark the young roe
On its lovely green stem,
Just opening its lips to the dew?
And the noisy laged birds,
Did ye look upon them,
Jest bunting their wings ere they flew?

Did ye mark the young roe
Bowing down in the east,
And the clouds cold and silent above—
And the cool evening bell,
And the gay matin frost,
And the joy of the bride and her love?

Oh, the rose has been swept,
By the tempest's rude blast,
And its leaves are all scattered and dead,
And the light which dawn'd the sun,
Is now gone, the new day,
And its last ray in twilight has fail'd.

SCRAPS OF HUMOR, WIT, &c.

Folk, Earl of Anjou, grandfather to Henry II. of England, bore the broom branch of his penitential pilgrimage to the Holy Land; and bears the name of Plantagenet, from the Plantagenets, descended to the English Kings.

Somebody was consulting with Lord Norbury a few days ago on the majority of 21 for the third reading of the Catholic Bill, "Poh!" replied the venerable joker, "that's nothing; it was within one of a minority, you know."

A gentleman by the name of Marble was married to a Miss Moss, in defiance of the Mosses—"A rolling stone will never gather moss."

"Diseases," the cynic, being asked which was the best wine, answered, "that which he drank at other men's cost."

Talking of the House of Commons in company with Lord Liverpool, Madame de Staél remarked to his lordship, that she was well acquainted with the British orators. "I have read," said she, "all their speeches, which appear to be more admirable for their length than for anything else. But there is one that I now see—Major Hawksworth, who is become of him?" He was used to fatigue me more than all the rest put together!" [Lord Liverpool was formerly Lord Hawksbury.]

In St. John's Hall, one day, during dinner, they happened to be a great party of waiters. A gentleman, impatient at the delay, at length exclaimed, "D—n it, we can't get a waiter!" "The Devil we can't," said Mr. Keen, who sat opposite, "I think we are all d—d."

A French gentleman, some days since, applied to the secretary of one of the London charities to know the nature of its foundation. The clerk was proceeding regularly to inform him, that he had one good president and twelve vice-presidents, when he was interrupted by "Ah, ha! you good president; vice, dat is vicked; and you have twelve vicked ones; dat will be all too strong for dat d—d."

A Bacchanalian candidate offering for a County Borough, the electors unanimously agreed that he was a very proper man to sup-pot.

One person rises in the morning at half past nine, another at six. If each live to be fifty years old, the one will have enjoyed 63,873 hours, or 2,661 days, more than the other.

At Vienna, wax and tallow candles are now made with wicks of straw or paper, broken as if it had been chewed. According to the German Journals, they last ten hours, and neither smell, smoke or run down.

At one of the late Whitewell Club meetings, near W——, a collier, during the lecture, had fallen under the somniferous influence of his early potations, his carcass was truly in the Church, but where his thoughts were will further appear, for when the Clerk struck up as usual, with "let us sing," &c. &c. &c.; roused by the magic of the word sing—"Aye, Jack," cried he, "let's have a song sing; it was nae fast asleep."

"Has O'Blarney come yet?" said one scholar to another, as he entered the academy.—"No," replied the lad, "but I expect him soon, for I just now saw his nose coming round the corner."

Shortly after the commencement of the last war a tax was laid on candles, which, as a Hibernian lecturer would prove, made them dearer. A Scotch wife in Greenock remarked to the chandler, Paddy Macbeth, that the price was raised, and asked why. "It's a' owing to the war," said Paddy. "The war?" said the astonished matron, "Gracious me! are they going to fight by candle-light?"

In the retreat of the French from Moscow, Count Segur relates the rather singular circumstance of a howitzer shell entering the body of a horse, which burst there, and blew him to pieces, without wounding his rider, who fell upon his legs, and went on!

A military officer, of diminutive stature, was lately drilling an Irishman considerably above six feet in height. "Hold up your head," said the officer, elevating the chin of the Irishman with the head of his cane, to an angle of nearly forty-five degrees. "Hold up your head so, and throw your eyes somewhat to the right thus." "And must I always do so, my noble captain?" asked the recruit, with much apparent simplicity? "Yes always," answered the officer. "Then fare you well, my dear little fellow," rejoined Paddy, "I shall never see you again."

A punster being asked by a musician whether he was not a lover of harmony, replied "Yes, but I prefer it when it is abridged, for, then it is money, and that, my friend, is the better half of it." I have no objection to your note, but I like those of the bank of England much better: you may make good tunes, but those are infinitely the best of tunes." "How so? that Bank notes are excellent things I will allow, but what tune will they make?" "The very best tune in the world—a for-fum."

In answer to the following query—"Supposing a lady to have lost her fourth finger, on which finger should the wedding ring be placed?" A correspondent says, that, a few years since, a Miss Honeywood was exhibited in Dublin, who was totally destitute of fingers, and indeed of hands, and arms; she was subsequently married, and the bridegroom, upon this occasion, placed the wedding ring upon one of her toes.

Colonel Arabia.—Colonel Arabia, the father of the late General Arabia, was sent in pursuit of the Pretender, after the battle of Culloden, and a reward of 30,000*l.* was offered for his head. The private orders to the Colonel, however, were not to kill him. In this regard, the soldiers came very near the unfortunate Prince; when one of his attendants, who knew the danger of his master, assumed the dress of the latter with the greatest care, and, stepping forward, disengaged himself, to give Prince Charlie. The Colonel, however, knew the contrary, but adopted him, and brought him to his quarters, and in the mean time his master informed him, "The Duke of Cumberland, however, intended to inflict the punishment of military death upon him, but I have interceded, and obtained a pardon, and he is now safe."

The miseries which poor soldiers may suffer from the march and distress of certain of their campaigns are exemplified in the following extract from the Letters of Warburton to Bishop Hunt.

"I have a great mind to do justice on Hume's argument against miracles, which I think might be done in a few words. But does he deserve notice? Is he known among you? Pray answer me these questions. For if his own weight keep him down, I should be sorry to contribute to his advancement to any place but the piflory."

"As to Home's History you need not fear being foisted by a thousand such writers."

What Warburton observed in relation to the publications of his day, is applicable to those of the present.—"Our London books are like our London real, never fit for entertainment on the table, till they have been well puffed and blown up."

Lord Bolingbroke called Montesquieu's Spirit of laws "a diamond to French genius."

A planter in one of the southern States had two slaves who were fond of hunting. One day, having finished their tasks, they repaired to a neighbouring wood, where they found a raven, which curiously induced them to enter. They agreed that one should remain at the entrance, while the other entered the den. While thus engaged, a wolf, the inhabitant of the den, returned, and not perceiving the man at the entrance, was seized by the tail and held fast. The other, alarmed at the sudden darkness of the den, and being at a loss how to account for it, cried, "What de devil make de hole so dark?" Bumbo replied, "if de tail come loose, I guess you know."

Raw eggs, says the American Farmer, given to sheep and cattle which have been poisoned by eating laurel or ivy leaves, will effect a specific cure. The dose is 1 for a sheep, or 4 for a cow. They can be administered by simply breaking the shell and slipping the yolk and as much of the white as is practicable, down the animal's throat.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to their interest. His experience in the business, and his attention to it, will be ample sufficient to qualify him for the management of the same, and to enable him to employ his time in Dying, Bleaching and Dyeing of Piece Goods, of every description. Gauze-Clothes, wet, dry, or as required, on an improved plan, &c. &c. Cotton, Linen, &c. &c. Dyed to any tint, or shade, &c. &c. Various colours warranted. Articles for Mourning attended to at the shortest notice.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to their interest. His experience in the business, and his attention to it, will be ample sufficient to qualify him for the management of the same, and to enable him to employ his time in Dying, Bleaching and Dyeing of Piece Goods, of every description. Gauze-Clothes, wet, dry, or as required, on an improved plan, &c. &c. Cotton, Linen, &c. &c. Dyed to any tint, or shade, &c. &c. Various colours warranted. Articles for Mourning attended to at the shortest notice.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to their interest. His experience in the business, and his attention to it, will be ample sufficient to qualify him for the management of the same, and to enable him to employ his time in Dying, Bleaching and Dyeing of Piece Goods, of every description. Gauze-Clothes, wet, dry, or as required, on an improved plan, &c. &c. Cotton, Linen, &c. &c. Dyed to any tint, or shade, &c. &c. Various colours warranted. Articles for Mourning attended to at the shortest notice.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to their interest. His experience in the business, and his attention to it, will be ample sufficient to qualify him for the management of the same, and to enable him to employ his time in Dying, Bleaching and Dyeing of Piece Goods, of every description. Gauze-Clothes, wet, dry, or as required, on an improved plan, &c. &c. Cotton, Linen, &c. &c. Dyed to any tint, or shade, &c. &c. Various colours warranted. Articles for Mourning attended to at the shortest notice.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to their interest. His experience in the business, and his attention to it, will be ample sufficient to qualify him for the management of the same, and to enable him to employ his time in Dying, Bleaching and Dyeing of Piece Goods, of every description. Gauze-Clothes, wet, dry, or as required, on an improved plan, &c. &c. Cotton, Linen, &c. &c. Dyed to any tint, or shade, &c. &c. Various colours warranted. Articles for Mourning attended to at the shortest notice.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to their interest. His experience in the business, and his attention to it, will be ample sufficient to qualify him for the management of the same, and to enable him to employ his time in Dying, Bleaching and Dyeing of Piece Goods, of every description. Gauze-Clothes, wet, dry, or as required, on an improved plan, &c. &c. Cotton, Linen, &c. &c. Dyed to any tint, or shade, &c. &c. Various colours warranted. Articles for Mourning attended to at the shortest notice.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to their interest. His experience in the business, and his attention to it, will be ample sufficient to qualify him for the management of the same, and to enable him to employ his time in Dying, Bleaching and Dyeing of Piece Goods, of every description. Gauze-Clothes, wet, dry, or as required, on an improved plan, &c. &c. Cotton, Linen, &c. &c. Dyed to any tint, or shade, &c. &c. Various colours warranted. Articles for Mourning attended to at the shortest notice.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to their interest. His experience in the business, and his attention to it, will be ample sufficient to qualify him for the management of the same, and to enable him to employ his time in Dying, Bleaching and Dyeing of Piece Goods, of every description. Gauze-Clothes, wet, dry, or as required, on an improved plan, &c. &c. Cotton, Linen, &c. &c. Dyed to any tint, or shade, &c. &c. Various colours warranted. Articles for Mourning attended to at the shortest notice.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to their interest. His experience in the business, and his attention to it, will be ample sufficient to qualify him for the management of the same, and to enable him to employ his time in Dying, Bleaching and Dyeing of Piece Goods, of every description. Gauze-Clothes, wet, dry, or as required, on an improved plan, &c. &c. Cotton, Linen, &c. &c. Dyed to any tint, or shade, &c. &c. Various colours warranted. Articles for Mourning attended to at the shortest notice.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to their interest. His experience in the business, and his attention to it, will be ample sufficient to qualify him for the management of the same, and to enable him to employ his time in Dying, Bleaching and Dyeing of Piece Goods, of every description. Gauze-Clothes, wet, dry, or as required, on an improved plan, &c. &c. Cotton, Linen, &c. &c. Dyed to any tint, or shade, &c. &c. Various colours warranted. Articles for Mourning attended to at the shortest notice.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to their interest. His experience in the business, and his attention to it, will be ample sufficient to qualify him for the management of the same, and to enable him to employ his time in Dying, Bleaching and Dyeing of Piece Goods, of every description. Gauze-Clothes, wet, dry, or as required, on an improved plan, &c. &c. Cotton, Linen, &c. &c. Dyed to any tint, or shade, &c. &c. Various colours warranted. Articles for Mourning attended to at the shortest notice.

N. B. Order from any part of the United States, freshly received and promptly attended to. April 25—1810.

REMARKS ON THE AMERICAN FARMER.—Richard Morris, formerly of the firm of Morris & Jones (now on) has most respectfully to inform his friends, and the public generally, that he has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

He has sold his interest in the business to his son, Richard Morris, of New York, and has retired from business.

Richard Morris, and others, are respectfully requested to pay due and prompt attention to the above, as they will find much to